Dazed by Liquor, Life Is Crushed Out on Railway

Ole Larson Struck by Spokane Flier and Killed on C. P. R. South of Parkland

An inquest was held to-day (Friday) on the remains of Ole Larson, who was struck and killed by the Calgary-Spokane flier last night about three miles south of Parkland. The deceased and his companion were walking on the track on their way home to the farm of Chas. M. Hanson, where both were employed. Chas. E. Newman, who was with the deceased, stepped off the rails expecting his companion to follow him. This Larson did not do with the result that his dead body was hurled by the swiftly moving train almost to Newman's feet.

Coroner (Insp.) Tucker empannelled a jury consisting of Messrs. W. C. Miller, G. M. Godell, M. Fisher, W. R. Lindsay, C. N. Booth and Frank Murray. The body which had been brought to Claresholm last night on the train which caused the death, was viewed by the jury at Ringrose's undertaking rooms and in afternoon the taking of evidence was gone on with. There were heard Constables Maclellan, R. E. Tivy and S. A. Simmons all of the Mounted Police, Chas. M. Hanson and C. E. Newman, who knew deceased, Adam H. Hobkirk and John Horney, engineer and frenem respectively of the engine of the train, and David Clark, proprietor of the Parkland hotel.

Constable Maclellan arrived in Parkland about 6 p. m. and had been seen by the proprietor of the Parkland hotel to escort the deceased from an out-building adjoining the hotel. The men had very shortly after left apparently for home. Both were intoxicated. Neither had obtained any liquor after the constable's arrival.

Constable Tivy was on the train which struck the deceased. He remembered distinctly hearing the whistle twice. The brakes were applied with the last whistle and the train was very quickly brought to a standstill. The body was found very close to the rear end of the train. Newman was in an intoxicated condition. Broken glass was found on the pilot of the train. The smell of spirits was very noticeable. The companion of the deceased was brought to Claresholm.

Chas. M. Hanson, the employer of the deceased and also of Newman, saw the men in Parkland and saw a bottle of liquor being purchased. He called for the men on his way home shortly before 6 p. m., but they were not ready to go home. Newman appeared to be more under influence of alcohol than the other. The deceased had adopted somewhat strangely at times during the ten days he had been in his employ. He had said, "A man is better dead than alive," and "When a man gets drunk he is liable to lie down on the track and have the train run over his head." Deceased had told Mrs. Hanson that his wife was dead and that he had two children. They did not know where the man came from.

Chas. E. Newman, who was with the deceased, when he met his death, had been his companion during the afternoon. Deceased had had two glasses of beer and four of whiskey at the hotel. One drink had only been taken from the bottom. None had been taken on their journey toward home. They had heard the whistle of the train. Deceased had said, "Look out, Chas. I am in no humor." With his hand over his shoulder and saw the train. When it was about 100 yards away he stepped off the rails on the east side. He thought the deceased had done the same. There was plenty of time. The train struck his companion, and the body rolled down the hillast to the edge of the ditch. The train was stopped in its own length, about seven cars. He had met the man for the first time on May 8th. Deceased had told him that he had two brothers in Norway and four in the United States. He thought the train was travelling 40 miles an hour. It stopped very quickly. Deceased had acted somewhat querly. He had heard him make the remarks sworn to by the previous witness. Deceased had said that he was against liquor but that when he was where he could get it he always drank it. Newman was assisting the other to walk.

Adam N. Hobkirk, engineer of train No. 63, engine No. 2887, left Parkland almost on time, 7:29 p. m. Saw two objects on track a mile and a half off. Daylight. He blew crossing signal when about 750 yards from the men. One man turned and looked toward the train. This was Newman, who stepped off on the left side of the track. At 250 yards he whistled the second time and applied the emergency brake. Deceased was walking towards the left side as if to leave the track. When the brakes were applied the man still had time to get clear. He went to the rear of the train and saw the body. The man was dead. On the left side of the pilot were fragments of a broken bottle. He was running about 40 miles an hour. He was able to stop, owing to the emergency brake, walking on the tracks. He wished to attract attention. If the whistle is heard to naturally expects the person warned to get clear.

John Horney, the frenem, said he was on the train to Parkland and saw the whistle. Newman had taken a stop or two to the left rail and then turned and looked straight at the engine. This was about 100 yards away. He lost sight of the man. There was still time to step clear. Deceased did not seem to want to get clear.

Constable Simmons testified to taking the body from the train at Claresholm to the mortuary. A search of the clothing showed fragments of a broken whiskey bottle in the left coat pocket which was saturated with liquor. There were no effects of any value, no money, no letters, or valuables. Deceased's neck was broken. There were scalp wounds. He had taken Newman in charge.

David Clark, proprietor of the Parkland hotel, swore to selling deceased in the early in the afternoon. Deceased had at least four or five drinks. At 1:30 p. m. he had locked up the barroom because Newman was pestering for more drinks. He had asked the constable to warn them from the out-building because he thought that

Nick Taitinger Scores Again for Claresholm

Once more the name of Claresholm has been forced upon the attention of the agriculturists of the world and Sunny Southern Alberta has held her own against all-comers. Nick Taitinger, whose enterprise has won many laurels in the past, has been awarded first of medal for Mixed Wheat and also a second barrel of barley at the Potato Exposition at San Francisco. This is a notable achievement for the competition was keen. The C. P. R. ayerly may extols to the west for this exhibition at San Francisco and Claresholm grown wheat and barley were the best at the Fair. If there were more farmers that would go in for producing the best, this district would soon be known as the Best in the West.

Wednesday Half-Holidays Arranged for Summer

About 25 of the citizens of the town, largely businessmen, attended a meeting at the council chamber on Monday evening to discuss the advisability of having a weekly half-holiday during the summer months. A motion had been circulated and signed almost unanimously by the business men of the town agreeing to close their businesses for the afternoon selected. Some discussion revealed the fact that there was a disinclination to close entirely for an afternoon each week, but that there was a willingness to do so during the hours of one to five o'clock. A motion had been circulated and signed almost unanimously by the business men of the town agreeing to close their businesses for the afternoon selected. Some discussion revealed the fact that there was a disinclination to close entirely for an afternoon each week, but that there was a willingness to do so during the hours of one to five o'clock. As the 1st of July falls on Thursday, it was decided that the day before should be exempted from the Wednesday closing plan and also that as the Fair dates, August 12-13, are at the beginning of the harvest busy time, the plan should not apply after the 4th of August. This means that commencing on Wednesday, June 23rd, every Wednesday afternoon during July and Wednesday afternoon, August 4th, will be a public holiday in Claresholm during the hours mentioned. After five o'clock shopping may be done and the farmer is thus enabled to enjoy the sports as well as shopping with the one trip to town.

To ensure a definite program of sports for these afternoons, two committees were chosen, one consisting of R. E. Moffatt, C. P. Branson, W. J. McKenzie, W. R. Shanks and L. L. Clark to arrange for baseball, football and various other athletic sports; and one consisting of D. B. Vauborn, J. E. Watt, O. L. Reinecke, J. E. Moffatt and C. N. Booth to arrange for horse racing. A few of 15 cents for they were "celebrating" with the bottle of liquor there. He had sold them no liquor after 1:30 p. m. It was his rule to refuse liquor to men who were showing signs of intoxication. He considered the deceased capable of handling himself when he last saw him.

The jury was addressed by the coroner, the law in the matter being clearly explained and its duties outlined. A resume of the evidence was given and the points of importance recalled. The finding was to the effect that the man had not his death by being struck by the engine of the train while in a dazed condition, probably caused through drinking. The engineer of the train being fully exonerated from all blame in the matter.

Closes Four-Year Pastorate Here and 42-Year Ministry

On Monday evening of this week a number of the congregation of the local Methodist church assembled at the depot to bid goodbye to the Rev. J. M. Harrison and family, who were leaving for their new home in Sunnyside, B. C. Rev. Harrison had completed a four-year pastorate here and at the same time has been active in the work of the ministry after over 40 years of continuous service. What made the parting more depressing was the fact that Mr. Harrison is not only leaving his last station and the active ministry, but is, according to his physicians, nearing the end of the long journey. Mr. Harrison has been in a very weak condition for some months and his little remaining strength will be sorely tried by the journey to his new home. He has been the owner of a fine tract at Sunnyside for some time and was looking forward to spending his declining years in the building of a home and the developing of pleasant environments for that home. He hopes now that in the short time which may yet remain to him of life to build a home for his family and leave them as comfortably located as possible before the summons comes. With the indomitable energy which has characterized him in his 42 years of pioneer service in the Methodist church in the West, he is settling with his family in Edmonton, his brother ministers among themselves made up a purse of about $200 as a parting gift to his passing chieftain. The conference itself placed on record a special resolution, which is reprinted below. It expresses the value of Mr. Harrison's work for Methodism in the west and the love and respect in which he is held by his co-laborers in the ministry of the church.

A special resolution regarding the Rev. J. M. Harrison, who has been superannuated after an active service in the Methodist ministry in the west for over 11 years, and who is seriously ill and is removing to British Columbia, was moved by Dr. Riobell and carried unanimously, reads:

"Knowing that the Rev. J. M. Harrison has been enabled by rapidly failing health to drop the cares of the ministry and seek a sunnier climate among us, this annual conference feels that it cannot let this session pass without expressing its keen regret that the wise and helpful presence of our brother will no longer add us in the counsels and work of our church. For years we have turned our faces in the hours of our perplexity to him for unselfish advice and sound guidance. When we recall the fact that for over 41 years he has labored continuously between Winnipeg and the Rockies, filling the most important trusts and appointments in the gift of the church, we recognize in a small degree the far-reaching significance of his work in the formative days of the central west of our great Dominion. He has stood among us as a link binding the heroic and pioneer past with the organized and manifold work of today."

"Entering the ministry in the days when such stalwart men as George Young and George McDougall planned the work and inspired the scattered people, he caught their spirit and cherished their zeal, and transmitted to our age and conditions much of their devotion and enthusiasm. During these long years of faithful service his voice has pealed forth in ringing notes, advocating every cause which promoted human welfare and elevated divine righteousness. He was the inspiration for all that dedicated and unselfish work of ministry, but the fearless champion of every institution, effort and organization whose end was to secure for the new settlers peace, prosperity and progress. He loved his church, his nation and his people, and counted no sacrifice too great provided only he could advance the moral, spiritual and intellectual interests of those for whom he labored."

"We found him a wise counselor, a helpful pastor, an inspiring preacher, and a tireless worker. In spite of a physical handicap in which many a brave man would have long given up the struggle, he toiled on without a murmur in his chosen life work, undertaking tasks and achieving results which are, to say the least, wonderful in the eyes of his brethren."

"By his side and during many of these eventful and important years, there has toiled with a devoted ardor equalled, his faithful wife, to whom we would now convey our heartfelt words of appreciation and our kindest greetings."

"The Rev. J. M. Harrison, whose transparent honesty, clear vision and kindly nature, we may have long since learned to value, we would wish, following voices and trembling lips say good-bye as an active worker among us, with the added prayer that his health may be restored that he may enjoy for many years his well-deserved rest. But if our heavenly Father should see otherwise, then we shall always pray that our honored brother may find comfort and beneath him the never failing arms of that God whom he has served so faithfully and so well."

At the R. N. W. M. P. barracks on Tuesday, Friday, Bristow, with more than his share of aliases, faced the charge, preferred by T. H. English, immigration officer, of having returned to this country after having been deported in November of last year. The accused, speaking in his own behalf, told a story of a sick wife and a child taken in charge by the Children's Aid Society in Calgary while the man who should have been their support and comfort was in the U.S., having been deported as a result of trouble which arose through the misappropriation funds of the Hudspeth-Anderson Co., for which the accused was at one time a collector. Hearing that the Children's Aid Society was about to take the child permanently under its protection, Bristow had written to protection to Canada. According to the story, he had been led to believe that his wife was in Nanton and had come south to find her. Failing this, he returned to Calgary where he located his wife and child and took them to Wetaskiwin. Here funds played out and in expectation of work he was remaining, until picked up by the police about a week ago and forced to face not only the charge of returning to Canada, but also a charge of having forged a cheque with the name of J. M. Soby, a prominent Claresholm merchant, and having cashed it with E. O. Richards, a merchant at Parkland. On the charge of returning to Canada after deportation, Inspect. Tucker sentenced Bristow, to two months at Macleod.

Bristow, under the name S. A. Bowman, was arraigned on the charge of forging and uttering. A preliminary hearing was given him and he was committed for trial at the next sitting of the supreme court. From the evidence of E. O. Richards, Parkland, the accused is alleged to have made a small purchase at the store of the witness, tendering the cheque made on the Canadian Bank of Commerce, purporting to have been signed by J. M. Soby in favor of A. B. Anderson, whose endorsement appears thereon. Mr. Richards had no inquiry but had cashed the $31.15 cheque, deducting about $1.50 for the goods sold. It was the proceeds of this transaction which are alleged to have furnished the means for the Wetaskiwin trip referred to in the story of the accused in answer to the charge. J.M.Soby repudiated the cheque when in the natural course it was presented through his bank, the Union, for payment. The irregularity of the signature and the fact that it was made upon the circumference in which Mr. Soby does not carry an account, instead of the Union with whom Mr. Soby does business, led to the reference of the cheque to him before payment. The manager of the Union, W. R. Shanks, produced a specimen of the genuine signature and pronounced the document an apparent forgery. The accused made no statement on the trial before as touching the other charge, but it was found that the name Bowman was not his and asked that Bristow be substituted. The accused was identified by Mr. Richards as the man who presented the Bowman cheque to him.

Bristow was here a couple of years ago as a collector for the Hudspeth-Anderson Co., his business causing him to spend some weeks in this town. He is well-known to many and unscrupulously to some.

There will be a collection taken on the proceeds of which is to be a gift of appreciation to the pastor of the church, Rev. Harrison, by the Epworth League. The advertiser asks the indulgence of his friends in the irregularity caused by the pressure of job printing which it has had to cope with for the past two weeks. The Fair prize list is just completed and is also appearing in these columns. In other years it has been the custom to have the competition done out of town, but this year as a matter of economy, The Advertiser has kept all the work in its own office. The Advertiser is well and favorably known by the quality of the job printing it does and is increasing its patronage as a result. With the limited staff which is also a necessity of the times there are occasions when the newspaper end of the business must receive a little less attention.

First on Death's Honor Roll

The first death from wounds received on the field of battle which comes very close to the people of Claresholm, is that of Henry Harrison McNally, who was reported wounded a week or so ago and who now is among those who have given their lives for their country. This boy did not enlist from Claresholm, but he is known here and his parents were citizens of this town at the time when he did enlist. Claresholm claims him and honors his name and the sympathy of its citizens go out to Mr. and Mrs. McNally, his parents, in their new home at Olds, Alberta.

Couldn't Chill the Ball Fans

Jupe Pluy did his best to spoil Claresholm's sport day, but there were those who would not be denied and after all a very good crowd had a very good time. The [baseball] games were played with umbrellas but it was good ball at that. In the morning Meadow Creek and Trout Creek won four rounds without a decision, 1 to 1. Rain got in a solar plexus on both teams. In the afternoon, dodging the showers, two games were played, seven innings of wading leaving Gran Bell winner over Clear Lake, 10-8 and later Woodlawn on top of a perfect score, with Stay Line under. The quality of ball was surprising good for amateur teams. But the afternoon won the looking contest from Sykes & Slavey and Hobbs of Willow Creek. Over $70 was taken at the gate. Had the weather been good Claresholm would have had an old-time celebration.

Methodist Ministers' Locations

Among the Methodist pulpits in the south affected by the recent conference at Edmonton are: Rev. J. M. Fawcett removes from Stavely and will be stationed at Coaldale; Rev. J. V. Howey taking his place; Rev. W. E. Galloway, of Calgary, who lately preached here goes to Grace Church, Edmonton; Rev. A. B. Argue, who was pastor here four years ago leaves Olds for Vermilion; Rev. G. G. Pybus remains to Macleod, as does Rev. A. A. Lytle to Pincher Creek; Rev. G. H. Colleddick to Lethbridge. The stations in the Macleod district are given below.

The following is the final draft of the stationing committee of the Methodist conference for the districts of Lethbridge and Macleod:

Lethbridge city—Wesley, G. H. Colleddick; Westminster, J. B. Francis.

Coaldale, J. M. Fawcett; Talyer, I. Phillips; Iron Springs (under Coaldale), J. A. Eyre; Monarch and Albion Ridge, to be supplied; Barons, G. G. Pybus.

Lytle; Flahuron, H. S. Bird; Livingston (under Bellevue), A. J. Rudd; Bellevue, Fred T. Cook; Hillcrest, H. F. Frank; W. T. Young.

Willard Hair, town, was the winner of the gold medal in the district W.C.T.U. contest last week at Nutan.

Enrolling Proceeds Rapidly

Owing to the abundance of moisture in the southern part of the province, the grain crops are much above the average. As a result the Provincial School of Agriculture situated on the Demonstration Farm at Claresholm will be overcrowded when the term opens Oct. 28th.

To accommodate the large number of students that will be present a new building for live stock and agronomy will be built this summer. Additions will also be made to the staff.

Applications are being received daily. Prospective students, therefore, should make application at once to the Principal, W. J. Stephenson, for admission to the school.

The course is entirely free. The only expense in connection with it is for room, board and books.

Thanks to the Ladies

The Claresholm Patriotic and Relief Society, through its officers and the ladies of the "Flag Day" committee, wishes to express its appreciation of the work of the young lady collectors on June 14th and it feels deeply indebted to these young ladies for the splendid effort which they put forth under the most difficult circumstances. The opportunity afforded through these columns to publicly express thanks is gladly embraced.

Interprets Fence Amendment

Edmonton, June 1, 1915
Sir—I have your letter of the 29th, asking for interpretation of the following amendment to the Dangerous and Mischievous Animals Act:

"Any sheep or hog which breaks through or over any fence shall be deemed to be a notoriously brachy animal within the meaning of this Act."

I would advise in this connection that the mere passing under a fence which is far enough removed from the ground to allow the animal to pass under it is not sufficient to constitute such an animal a notoriously brachy animal under the Act. There must be a breaking under the fence and not merely a passing under it, that is to say, the animal must break through or over the fence either by breaking or bending or removing from its normal position some part of the fence or by digging it up under the fence.

Mrs. J. R. Watt this week received the news of the death of her father, Mr. Young, at Leigh-on-Sea, England, on Saturday, June 1st, at the age of 54. The late Mr. Young was apparently Hale and hearty up to within a very short time of his death, having recently won his 10th tennis singles championship. He has one son, G. H. Young, serving on the front having enlisted with the first Canadian contingent. Two daughters at Leigh-on-Sea and Mrs. J. R. Watt of Claresholm survive their father.

The publishers of The Advertiser are pleased to be able to announce that they have now concluded arrangements which enable them to make a more attractive offer to their readers.

Everybody is keenly interested in the Great War now being waged in Europe. Realizing this, some of the big publishers are producing illustrated records of the war, in weekly parts. Many of the big city dailies have made arrangements to give their readers the opportunity of securing these easily.

We consider ourselves fortunate in now being able to offer to our readers the most attractive of these publications—namely:—

"THE WAR PICTORIAL"

THIS PUBLICATION is a splendid record and pictorial history of the Great War. Week by week the canvas depicts scenes of battles by land, sea or air. The latest and best pictures from the war are shown, and also many exclusive photos of our own Canadian regiments in the field, and the men and horses in and their doings across the water, with other features of especial interest to Canadians.

This publication has an attractive cover printed in three colors, and twenty-four pages of fine illustrations, with a summary of the war entitled "The March of Events." Special numbers, with more pages and larger illustrations, are issued from time to time, as well as printed on good paper, size 9 x 12, an attractive size for binding.

PERSISTENCY COUNTS

ADVERTISING is friendly. It persuades. Slowly, but inevitably, it creates the attitude of Good Will and Confidence. It brings customers—who stay. A business built up in this way is built on a firm foundation. It's the kind of success that lasts. But it cannot be done in a day—a month. Nothing but persistent advertising will accomplish this sort of success.

WASTE IN SAVING

PROBABLY more money is wasted in advertising by running consistently in a publication for a long time, and then suddenly dropping it, than in any other way.

IT AMOUNTS to deliberately throwing away the good will which the readers of that publication have built up for the advertiser's name and product.

IT IS BETTER to advertise moderately, but regularly, than to use larger copy spasmodically.

ADVERTISE---BUILD BUSINESSWE NEED TO BE REMINDED

We need to be reminded quite as much as to be informed. Memory has been jealously described as "the thing we forget with." Out of sight is apt to be out of mind.

An advertiser who relies upon the memory of the public leans on a broken reed. The absence of its advertising from the newspapers has been the beginning of the end for many a firm. "The present editor hath ever the advantage over the absent owner."

A business that has achieved its magnitude or strength as the result of faithful advertising plays itself false if it suspends or ceases its advertising, on the grounds of economy. It is poor business vision which fails to see the principal feeder of business, and fatal judgment which cuts it off or interrupts its flow. Economics may be warranted, but they had better be effected in any other department than in the sales department—the department of revenue. Any course which shows your customer back from you or holds you from your customer is ruinous. The man with the money needs to be constantly sought. Advertising is the great discoverer of new customers, the great retainer of old ones.
